Access to the Festival Theatre

The main entrance to the Festival Theatre is from a new walkway, through a new doorway from the Elder Park side of the building. The entrance is through what was the Lyrics Room.

There is no car-park entrance from King William Road, only a small drop off driveway from the roadway. The new tram terminus is just beyond the path to the entrance.

Parking is available in the Riverbank Carpark, entrance from Morphett Bridge – take the lift up to the promenade level and follow the new open walkway right around the outside of both the Playhouse and Festival Theatres to arrive at the entrance to the Festival Theatre.

Parking in Adelaide Oval Car-park will be a straight walk across the bridge, up to the entrance. A drop off on the Memorial Drive end of the footbridge will be a walk across the bridge with left turn to follow the walk-way around both the theatres to arrive at the entrance.

There are two new cafes and a bar along the Promenade above the Riverbank Carpark. The new Star Café and Bar is immediately inside the main entrance to the Theatre.
